BOND CATECHISM

Q. What is a bond?
A. It is Uncle Sam's promise to pay with interest.Q. What is the difference between a bond and a greenback?
A. A greenback is a promise to pay on demand, without interest; a bond is a promise to pay at a future date, with interest.Q. Which is the safer?
A. Both are absolutely safe.Q. Which is the better?
A. Greenbacks are better for some things; bonds for others. As an investment for savings, a bond is far better.Q. How much cash does it take to buy a bond?
A. For a $100 bond, $2 down; $18 more next month; $40 more the following month, and the remaining $40 the month after. For a $50 bond, half as much, or $1, $9, $20, and $20. For a $1000 bond, ten times as much, or $20, $180, $400, and $400. If this is too fast for you, you can arrange with the bank on the security of the bond, to borrow the difference, and pay it back to the bank at such times as may be arranged.Q. What does it pay?
A. Four per cent. That is $4 a year, on a $100 bond, or $40 on a $1000 bond.Q. When is the principal sum to be repaid?
A. At the option of the government, at any time after ten years, and in any event in twenty-five years. If you need it sooner, you can get it by selling the bond, or borrowing money on it.Q. How much can I afford?
A. If you are a wage earner, all you can save in a year—which is probably considerably more than you usually have saved.

If you are a farmer, business man, or otherwise using invested capital—from thirty to one hundred times as much as you can afford to give to the Red Cross. For instance, you can afford to give the Red Cross $100, you can afford to take out from $3000 to $10,000 in bonds. For what you give to the Red Cross is gone. You do not get it back. Presumably you can afford to give to the Red Cross half of what you can devote to the government. For the other half, you can afford to pay in interest the difference between the amount the government pays on bonds and the amount you pay the bank. If you are in business, or own a farm, presumably you have to borrow money from the bank part of the year, and if you put some money into bonds, your borrowing, at times, may have to be increased by that amount. The government pays 4 per cent. If you can get money at 6 per cent, it costs you 2 per cent more, or if at 7 per cent, 3 per cent more. If you have to pay 7 per cent, and have to own the extra money all the time, your $100 loan will pay the extra interest on $333.33. If you only need the extra money on an average for half of each year, your $100 will pay the extra interest on $666.66. If you can get money at 6 per cent and your usual extra borrowing is only for half of the year, you can carry $10,000 with only $100 a year loan. If your extra borrowings would use up the extra capital only an average of 8 months, you would lose only $100 a year by carrying $20,000 in bonds. Your borrowing credit will not be decreased by holding the bonds, since the bonds themselves are security. So you can, as a farmer or business man, afford to carry in bonds, an amount equal to your maximum annual bank credit, or to from 20 to 100 times as much as you can afford to give to the Red Cross.

Q. What is my share?
A. The average person's share is $19 for each billion the government wants. If there are five in your family, your share of this five billion dollar credit is as much more or less than $250 as you are financially more or less than the average man—counting in the poorest as well as the richest in computing the average.Q. Is this not giving a great deal to the government?
A. It is not "giving" anything. You have as much as you had before, and you have it well invested.Q. What are other nations doing?
A. Germany has just floated its seventh loan, and has raised over three billion dollars. This is only our second, and we have not yet subscribed two billions to it. Germany has lost eight million men; we have lost none. German business is wrecked; ours is the best in history. German men are nearly all at war, and the women are doing the work. Germany, at the beginning of the war, had only two-thirds our population and less than half our wealth. Germany is blockaded, and we are doing profitable business with the world. If we can not do better with our second loan than Germany with the seventh, then Germany is supporting its war more than ten times better than we are. We can not win the war that way.

TO FRESNO FARMERS

"The apathy of certain rural communities," says the official Liberty Loan statement from Washington, "is one of the most seriously disturbing elements."

Since Fresno is one of those rural communities in which "apathy" prevails, especially among the rural part of the population, let us look ourselves squarely in the face, to see what that apathy means.

Apathy means indifference. It means either that we do not realize that we are in war, or that we do not care. It means that we have not pictured to ourselves what defeat in this war means to us, or that we do not realize that only our vigorous participation can prevent that defeat.

Defeat in Belgium and Serbia and Rumania meant an orgy of indescribable terrorism. It meant the slaughter of innocents; it meant starvation and vandalism and outrage. It means right now, the deportation and enslavement of whole populations. The world is fighting and has not yet defeated an enemy which, when it wins, wins that way.

Defeat of the Allies in Europe means the spreading of Belgian conditions as far as they can go. It does not mean the spreading of quite that, to us. We are too big to be overrun quite that way. There will be no German conquerors goose-stepping down the streets of Fresno, and no Zeppelins raining bombs on our roofs. But defeat of the Allies in Europe does mean the defeat of America, and that means money and tribute. Germany has piled up a bigger debt than a defeated or dead-locked Germany can pay. Germany knows that France and England can not pay it, either, and that unorganized Russia can not be made to pay it. But Germany knows that we can pay it, and is determined that we shall. Definite plans for holding up our ports for ransom have been a part of German strategy from the beginning. And if the Allies are defeated in Europe, Germany can do it. Germany has held up starving Belgium for forced contributions bigger than America has yet subscribed to the second Liberty Loan. Germany knows we can pay it, and if victorious will hold up the port of New York for fifty billion dollars ransom. And every farmer in Fresno county will lose more than his share of that ransom in broken values for his crops, besides having to help support the new war which America will then have to fight all alone.

This is how nearly the war threatened us already, before Germany's making war on us drove us into war. This is how nearly war threatens us now unless the Allies win it. And the Allies will not win it except by our help. We are getting ready to send that help, in the bodies and lives of our sons. Unless we are to send them to slaughter, and dedicate ourselves to defeat and its consequences, we must back them now, with money. And we can only back them with money, by each of us individually doing his liberal share.

This is the solemn demonstrable truth. This is just what the war means to us. There are those who know it, and those who do not. There are those who care and those who do not. The "apathetic" are those who do not know or care. Statistically, the rural population of Fresno county, the most prosperous farming population in the world this year, makes a financial showing which ranks it in this class. Mentally and morally, we can not conceive that it belongs to it. But there is only one week to demonstrate by our financial deeds. In one week, Fresno's farmers must invest two or three million dollars in Uncle Sam's notes, the best security and soundest investment in the world, or else confess that they have too little information to know, or too little imagination to realize, or too little character to care, what is going on in the world and what it means to us.

This is not scolding. It is merely the blunt truth, plainly told. We have too much confidence, and too much pride in the rural people of Fresno county to believe that they will fail to rise to this responsibility. But they have only this week to do it in, and if they are not to fail they must do many times over better than they have been doing.

FARM LABOR SUPPLY

The sharp letter, given out by the food administration in Washington in response to resolutions of the California Fruit Exchange—urging the exemption of farm workers from the draft, is perhaps more severe than discretion should have dictated, but it is at least a reminder to California producers that they must be backed with facts and figures in all their representations on the labor question. If they expect to be taken seriously, it is also a reminder that war time money value, is the measure of the importance of things these days. Fresh, perishable fruits are not war commodities. Dried fruits, on the other hand, are exactly as important as meat and bread. The staples furnish more nutriment, but the dried fruits in addition to their nutriment, furnish the health and digestion, without which the nutriment would be a mere laboratory computation.

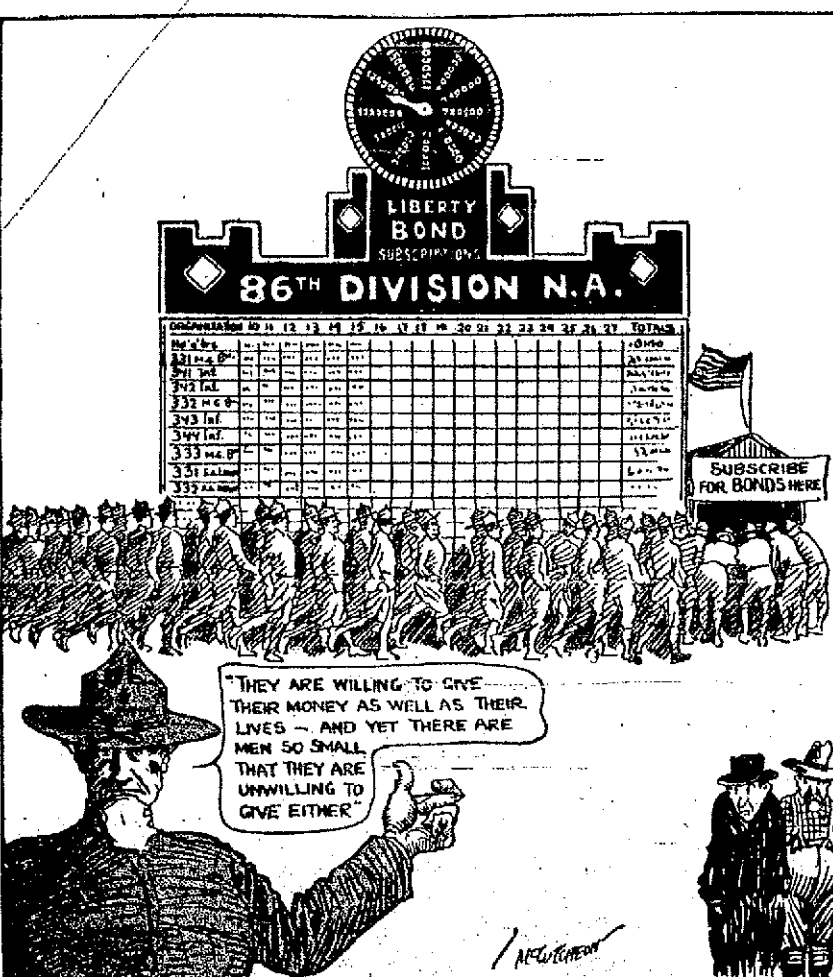

As to the labor problem itself, the first thing that is needed is accurate knowledge. We have not had enough of this, but we can get it. And, for it, one ounce of facts is worth more than seven tons of pessimistic knock or optimistic boost.

California farmers are going to be short of their usual labor supply. So are all the farmers, all the manufacturers, all the merchants and all the transportation industries in the world. The problem of the California farmer is not going to be wholly solved. Neither is anybody's. Everybody in the world is going to have to increase production, and nobody is going to have to have all the labor he needs to do it. Therefore, the farmer must not expect to be the exception. Like everybody else in the world, he must put his mind not on getting enough labor (that would be reaching for the moon) but in making the labor he can get go further. For we must not decrease production and we can not increase labor. Neither can we induce men to work on the farm as hard and as long as the farm employer would like to have them do. No other industry requires this, and therefore the farmer can not.

What the farmer must face, then, is first the problem of finding out, from a survey of facts, and not of opinions, just what the labor need and the labor supply are. Then he must consider means of increasing that labor, by the work of women, by the proper work of children, by the diversion of workers, for brief periods from the cities. He must make increased use of labor-saving machinery. He must pay higher wages and provide better quarters. And, especially, he must organize, or permit the organization of the labor problem, for the more efficient distribution of workers, without the waste of idleness in hunting jobs.

That this can be done the experience of Fresno this year demonstrated. There was nowhere where the year started out with so much hysterical pessimism. There was nowhere where, in the beginning, anger and intolerance so eluded judgment. But when practical organization got down to practical work, facts prevailed over moods and humors, and we met the problem, not only as well as in previous years, but better. The same thing can be done elsewhere, and doubtless will be. But it won't be by losing temper at those who base their estimate of labor supply on careful figures instead of contagious fears, nor by imagining that it is the government's business, or anybody's, to evoke from the bushes a sufficient labor supply for the old methods.

RECALL SAVED

The decision of the State Supreme court declaring that District Attorney Charles M. Fickert must face a recall election involves a point far more important than the mere recall of Fickert. Practically, it determines whether the initiative, referendum and recall shall be workable at all or not. A petition for the recall of Fickert had been presented, containing more than enough names. The names had been verified in the manner provided by the language of the statute, and found genuine and sufficient, and the election had been called in the manner prescribed in the statute. Fickert then went before the Superior court, and asked that it assume, on general principles, a jurisdiction which the language of the statute had expressly conferred on the registrar of voters. The Superior court agreed with Fickert, and issued a writ prohibiting the election until all the questions that might be raised regarding individual signatures or petitions might be heard and decided by the court. Of course, such a process would have no end. It has already delayed this particular recall election beyond the date fixed for it in the schedule, and it could be continued indefinitely. It could hold any official in office until his term expired. It could prevent the initiation of any proposed measure until after the election at which it would have to be voted on, and it could suspend a referendum against any legislative measure until after the date at which the enactment would automatically become a law. Also, it would establish the principle that the legislature can not, even by passing a law to that effect, authorize any ministerial officer to decide these questions, but that the courts will assume that function for themselves, no matter what the law says about it. On this basis, direct legislation would be a physical impossibility. The Supreme court therefore very properly determined that the recall law was to be construed to mean what it says, that the inspections and determinations under it are to be made as it provides, and that the election is to be held when and as a direct result of the law. The decision is, of course, the only sensible one, if law is to be law, and is the only possible one if direct legislation is to be legislation.

But there was a time when the Supreme court of California would not have known this, or would not have cared. Apparently some of the justices of the Superior court in San Francisco have not found it out yet.

Revelations of the doings of "Willy" and "Nicky" are beginning to frame events into history and disclose truths vital to an understanding of our world at war. Among all the astounding results of the present disclosures none is so startling as the revelation that in 1907 the Kaiser tried, but failed, to isolate England and France as in 1870. Bismarck had cut off France from help and crushed her. As time went on there was no prospect for a more favorable diplomatic setting, wherein to frame a war of aggression, and William II must fight soon.

In 1907 the Kaiser tried, but failed, to isolate England and France as in 1870. Bismarck had cut off France from help and crushed her. As time went on there was no prospect for a more favorable diplomatic setting, wherein to frame a war of aggression, and William II must fight soon.

After attaining the throne, the Kaiser's policy had pointed to conquest. Prizes for large families continued for two decades and then stopped. For young men make soldiers, but children are the future. The Kaiser, forced upon a dilemma, must see his life-time of preparation fade away or fight without great allies, other than Teutonic.

In 1914 the Kaiser chose war only to find Russia with France, and England with both as well as with Belgium. While Italy, breaking away from her old alliance with Germany, took up the game of battle for world freedom. How nearly autocratic intrigue reached its goal of world domination we now know.

One man foresaw the danger. Perhaps there were others, but this one possessed the infinite tact and charm, the energy and untiring devotion which could hold a life's training and purpose to the end. He was the Peace-Maker, the maker of loyal friendships and humanity the one man who made possible the success of the peoples in the present crucial struggle of time and the race—Edward the Great.

A Fresno Interview

Mr. Benson Tells His Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Fresno man over nine years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

C. J. Benson, R. R. K., Box 20, Fresno, says: "I suffered from kidney and bladder trouble for several years and could hardly get around. My back ached constantly and mornings it was impossible for me to sleep or straighten. I had dizzy spells, my head ached and I felt worn out all the time. I had no ambition and didn't feel like working. I took numerous kidney medicines, but not until I used Doan's Kidney Pills did I feel relief. Three boxes removed every sign of the trouble." (Statement given June 15, 1907.)

On March 29, 1916, Mr. Benson said: "I am as strong as Doan's Kidney Pills now as ever. They never fail to fix me up when I have an attack of kidney trouble."

Price 60c, at all druggists. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Benson has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

NORMA TALMADGE - KINEMA (PHOTOPLAYS)
"PANTHEA" IS MORE LAUGHS AT WHITE WED. NIGHT

Norma Talmadge has created a name for herself in such strong plays as "Social Secretary" and "The Bride," and has been handed just such a strong part in "Panthea," that tense and dramatic play in which Olga Petrova toured the country on the stage.

Suspense That Rises
To Tense Climaxes
The play starts out with a nihilist plot, the police interfering, and a man hunt that extends over three countries, ending in Paris, where Norma meets and marries a young composer.

Here in reality is where the story begins, but all the way through is there a hint of suspense, excitement, and the fact that the police are ever on her trail.

For a Wife Only to Decide
At this stage of the game her husband is taken ill and the only change with the doctors give him is conditional upon his composition being produced.

This leads to the one and great sacrifice by Norma—a "wonderfully worked" up climax in itself—but the real dramatic point of the play is where she has to face her husband.

A Double Climax
And just at that instant the long arm of the law steps into complicated matters, making this one of the most gripping plays, cleverly worked up with a cast of well-known actors to carry it. Besides Norma Talmadge are Earl Fox, Roger Lydon, etc.

Fatty There With Bells On
Today's program at the Kinema also includes another of these up-to-date "Fatty" comedies—this time it's "Fatty in Pain" and we can guarantee that Fatty in pain is just as funny as when playing grocer boy, or elsewhere.

Here Comes The Bride
Wednesday Night at White.
"Here Comes The Bride," which has been written for laughing purposes only, will be the offering Wednesday night, October 24, at the White Theater. Laughter, almost continuous, filled every cubic inch within the walls of the famous Columbia Theater in San Francisco, where the farce was recently presented. Good acting, clever lines and situations, unexpected twists, and more unexpected untwists, scenery and color designs that charm the eye, these are some of the things that make "Here Comes The Bride" a real winner. The standard of acting leaves nothing to be desired, every member of the cast which is evenly balanced is doing admirable work. In this delightful farce of Roy Arvel and Max Martin, there are thrills as well as laughs.

Charley Howard, the "sawed-off" comedian who excited the risibilities of Orpheumites in "A Happy Combination," is returning to Orpheum in a new vehicle entitled "Cured," and will appear on this week's Orpheum bill at the White Theater, opening Thursday night. Whether the prohibition movement has taken hold on him or not is unknown, but certain inference can be made from the fact that the stare setting of his act is no longer a saloon, but an ice cream soda fountain. Now Charley imbibes plain chocolate sodas and the like, and starts with an honest intention of remaining sober. How his headbache drama are frustrated is revealed in a pitch-provoking manner which entitles the famous funny falls indignations to Charley.

LAST WEEK OF THE LIBERTY LOAN CANVASS

SPECTACULAR DEMONSTRATION IS TO BE FEATURED TUESDAY EVENING AT LIBERTY STATUE, PARK ENTRANCE

Women of City to Assemble This Morning to Organize for Canvass of Every Fresno Home in Effort to Round Up Dollars for Use of Government

Liberty Loan Events for the Week

Monday—At 9 a. m. the women of the Fresno Auxiliary of the Liberty Loan Committee, under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, general chairman for the four counties of the jurisdiction, are to meet with the women of the city—who are of willing heart—for the purpose of organizing for the house to house canvass of the city.

Monday—At the noon hour, there is to be a monster Liberty Loan out-of-door demonstration at the statue of the Liberty Loan soldier at the Van Ness entrance to the Court House Park. The hour is 12:45. The children of the public schools, under the leadership of John Henry Lyons, are to sing.

Tuesday noon, October 23—At the Commercial Club, Miss Martha Chickering, field secretary of the Y. W. C. A., drafted for the Liberty Loan and Hoover conservation undertakings, is to speak of her work.

Wednesday noon, October 24—Liberty Loan luncheon at the Commercial Club, with Frank H. Short as the speaker. Two of the talented women of the city have been asked to be heard in song.

Wednesday evening—The fraternal orders of the city are to mass at the Municipal Auditorium for one of the greatest of all the Liberty Loan demonstrations.

This morning, the Fresno State Liberty Loan Auxiliary committee, in charge of the campaign for the raising of the Liberty Loan quotas in the counties of Fresno, Madera, Kings and Tulare, enters upon the last week of the undertaking that has for its object the raising of a fund of $4,000,000 for the war uses of the United States government.

According to the figures given out by William Neilson, special representative of the Federal Reserve bank, Twelfth district, in charge of the campaign for this section, there is a long way to go before the goal sought is to be reached.

The forces, however, are now thoroughly organized and as the days of the week pass, every home is to be canvassed and every individual is to be given opportunity to determine as to just what may be the attitude toward the government in the waging of this great war.

In the canvass of the week, the one thought is to be made plain, that in the event of the failure of the Liberty Loan bond issues, there remains but the one alternative—the direct taxation that shall reach every individual, without the return of principal or of interest, as in the matter of the purchase of the bond that brings back in due time, the principal and the interest that is the undertaking of the United States government.

Briefly, the war cry of the week is to be: "Shoulder a gun and go across, or dig down and come across." And no ten-thousand-dollar man, according to H. E. Patterson, in charge of the city campaign, is to be permitted to ease his conscience with a one hundred dollar Liberty Bond purchase.

Women Busy Today
This morning, at 9 o'clock, the women of the city, under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, designed as chairman of the auxiliary of the four counties of the Fresno jurisdiction, are to assemble at the Parlor Lecture club, with machines and driver, those who have them, and those who have not are to be there to take up the parties that are to go out with the machines for the canvass of the homes of the city.

The first hour of the morning assembly is to be given to organization and the allotment of territory, and to instruction, and then, to the end of the week, if there be need, the women are to knock at the door of every home in the city for the purpose of so presenting the claims of the government, and of the soldier boys, as to call for the most liberal subscribing that has been in evidence on the part of a loyal people.

These women of this auxiliary have been impressed with the menace that is before this nation, and this canvass is to be one of the most of the undertakings scheduled by the earnest women directing the forces.

The instant call for the early hour this morning is for the yielding of the use of machines and drivers, to the end that the women making up the canvassing force may be more effectively doing their work.

Liberty Fire Tuesday
These same women of the Fresno auxiliary are also planning an event for Tuesday evening that is to be in common with every populous section of the United States.

This demonstration is to be in the nature of a Liberty fire, to be lighted at the statue of the Liberty Loan soldier, at the entrance of the Court House park, on Van Ness avenue. The hour set for the lighting is 7:30 o'clock and aside from the "fire" there is to be a program by the children of the public schools, by some of the talented ones of the more advanced years. The Sun-Maid band is to furnish the music and there are to be short addresses by prominent speakers.

From this assembly, as from all of the other fires of the nation, a wire is to be flashed to President Wilson, assuring him of the loyal support of the women of the land in the solution of the problems that are expressed in the mobilizing of a great army for the overseas service.

Appeals to Employers
This morning the mails of the city and of the county are to be burdened by an appeal that is being sent out by H. E. Patterson, of the Merchants Association and of the city auxiliary, in which he sounds the warning note and makes the patriotic appeal. The letter follows:

To Employers:
The government appeals to you through the State Auxiliary of the second Liberty Loan, as an employer, to encourage the sale of bonds among your employees.

The great army of satisfied people throughout the United States are especially appealed to, at this time, to put their savings into Liberty Bonds. Not only will they be doing their country a patriotic duty, but gaining for themselves a distinct advantage never before offered in this country. The buying of a 4 per cent Government bond, the best security on earth, is better than any bank and will save you a saving and assist the government in financing itself without the necessity of placing a further burden of taxes upon the people.

Local banks have announced that savings or time deposits may be withdrawn at any time without the loss of interest to depositors. This should encourage employees to take additional bonds, and if you have not already arranged to do so, we ask that, if possible, arrangements be made for the purchase of bonds by your people on installments that can be met by them from their weekly or monthly salaries.

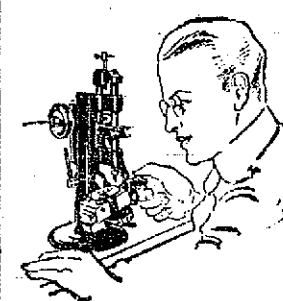

Salaried people and wage earners, as a class, can possibly do more for the government than at the same time can a distinctive advantage for themselves in promoting this Liberty Loan than any other class of people. This has been found especially true in England and France, and is undoubtedly the case in this country.

Will you please make it possible for your employees to purchase bonds up to the limit of their possibilities. Sincerely yours,
FRESNO COUNTY LIBERTY LOAN COMMITTEE
By H. E. Patterson.

FARM CENTERS IN BUREAU FORMING

Kingsburg and Selma are organizing with the idea of taking an active part in the Fresno county fair, which will be organized at a meeting to be held next Saturday in the office of Farm Adviser L. E. Smith, in the Highland building.

Yesterday Farm Adviser Smith spoke at a meeting in Selma on crop matters and at the meeting plans were taken for the organization of a farm bureau center in that city. A similar meeting was held last night in Kingsburg.

FRATERNAL ORDERS PLANNING GREAT LOAN EVENT

Orders to Mass in Parade Wednesday Evening for Big Bond Rally

Municipal Auditorium Is to Be Scene of Appeal for Government

On Wednesday evening, there is to be featured at the Municipal Auditorium, one of the most representative assemblies of the Liberty Loan campaign, so far as the city of Fresno is concerned.

It is to be the merging of the fraternal orders of the city, in the effort to make the impression upon the public mind that shall be in the nature of a most potent appeal for the performance of the loyal duty as citizens in the disposal of the Liberty Loan bond apportionment for this section.

This gathering at the Auditorium is to be preceded by a parade of the orders interested, and there may be a turning out of the clubs of the city for the purpose of showing the spirit of fellowship and to give the greater emphasis to the demonstration.

American flags are to be carried by the thousands of marchers who have indicated their purpose to have a part in the parade, and the drill teams, the uniformed ranks and the drum corps of the several organizations are to have a part.

There are also to be several bands of music for the parade to give the stirring touch.

For Great Assembly
The tentative plans to be suggested to this joint committee will provide for the assembling of the memberships of each organization at their respective meeting places in the lodge buildings, where they will enter into the parade as the column moves along in formation.

A meeting of the officials of the various fraternal organizations and clubs, together with the committees which have been appointed, is called for this evening.
This meeting will be held promptly at seven o'clock in the rooms of the Commercial Club, on the fourth floor of the Highland building, and the officers of all organizations are requested to see that their organizations are in attendance themselves at this meeting.

Line of March
Details concerning the line of march of the patriotic parade and the position of each organization therein are to be considered and it is necessary that correct information be taken back to the respective organizations in order that no confusion will occur on the evening of the parade.

Sections for seating the various lodges in the Auditorium will also be adopted at this time.
Vice-Chairman representative of the various organizations, will also be chosen and American flags, to be carried in the parade, will be parceled out.

Practically all of the city fraternal organizations have responded to the invitations by notifying the chairman of the Liberty Loan Lodge and Club Committee Harry P. Jayne, of the passage of resolutions to participate and of the appointment of committees to care for the necessary arrangements and insure a full turn out of their members.

BARSTOW COLONY CHILDREN GIVE TO RED CROSS

Self-Denial of Little Folks Helps Fund and Saves Sugar

BARSTOW COLONY, Oct. 21.—The small school children of this district have made a showing of self-sacrifice for the Red Cross, which would net thousands of dollars for the relief organization if purchased on a similar scale in other schools throughout the land. For some time the children have been interested in saving up paper for the Red Cross, but their latest activity calls for real self-denial. It is customary for the children to come to school with pencils and pencils, which have been spent each day at a nearby grocery for cookies, nick nacks and candies to supplement the noon lunch. It was suggested by one of the teachers that, if at least a portion of the money which was being spent for candy would be given to the Red Cross, it would serve the double purpose of helping suffering humanity and aiding Mr. Hoover in his sugar saving campaign. The children responded heartily with a liberal half of their candy allowance. One little Russian girl handed her teacher a 2-cent piece Monday morning, explaining that her father always gave her that amount each Monday to spend as she desired throughout the week. Formerly the nickel went each school day for candy, but the girl with a true spirit of patriotism lost her own personal gratification and donated all to the Red Cross. The children are very proud of the showing that they have made and are now anxiously looking to other communities to do the same thing with an interest of rivalry.

To these there will be added three branches of the city playgrounds, and one at the orphanage.
